9 Beauty Products Supporting 2018's Breast Cancer Awareness Month (and How Much They're Donating)

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, which means a portion of the profit proceeds of the beauty products below will go to breast cancer screening, treatment, and research. Pretty great, no? What's even better is that you'll know exactly how much that portion is and which charity your purchase will benefit.

The hydrating iS CLINICAL POLY-VITAMIN SERUM contains hyaluronic acid, vitamins B3 and B5, and exfoliating sugar cane extract to improve elasticity and soothe dryness as it soaks into skin. iS CLINICAL is donating 100 percent of the purchase price to the National Breast Cancer Coalition.
